

JOSÉ ENRIQUE NOVOA JEREZ

University of La Serena - Department of "Social Sciences"

PhD in Geography, Chair of Physical Geography Applied Program

STITUTIONAL ROLES

Member of Steering Committee Hazard & Risk IGU

MAIN RESEARCH INTERESTS

Physical Geography in Arid Ecosystems, natural hazards, climatic change, natural resources.

ACADEMIC CAREER

He teaches "Physical Geography", "Applied Physical Geography", "Management of Arid Ecosystems", "Management of Coastal zones" and "Natural Hazards" at the La Serena University (Chili). He is in charge of Physical Geography for Center for Advanced Studies in Arid Zones (CEAZA). He has taken part in national and international projects (geomorphology, climatic change and natural hazards in South America, North America, Europe and Asia) and has collaborated with various research institutes (i.e., Center of Regional Studies "Profesor Félix Weinberg", Bahía Blanca, Argentina).