

MARINA ARSHINOVA

Lomonosov Moscow State University
Department of World Physical Geography and Geoecology
Senior Scientific Researcher

INSTITUTIONAL ROLES

MAIN RESEARCH INTERESTS

Geoecological assessment of territories, geoecological indicators of sustainable development, anthropogenic factors of landscape transformation in Europe, nature protection areas, environmental education in Russia and abroad

ACADEMIC CAREER

Marina Arshinova is Senior Scientific Researcher at the MSU Department of World Physical Geography and Geoecology. She teaches Physical Geography of the Continents, Regional Geoecology of Europe, Natural Zones of the World and other disciplines for bachelor and master students. She is also a lecturer at the School of Young Geographers and at the Preparatory Courses of the MSU Faculty of Geography. Together with colleagues she is engaged in research projects of the department dealing with the analysis of regional geoecological issues under the global environmental changes. She has participated in a number of research grants. She was speaker at about 20 meetings and national and international conferences. She is author of about 70 scientific publications.

Since 2011 Marina Arshinova is a member of the Russian Geographic Society. In 2005 she was awarded the Badge of Honor to the 250 Anniversary of the Lomonosov Moscow State University. In 2008 she was awarded a Letter of Appreciation of the Moscow Region's Governor as an author and editor of the Red Book of the Moscow Oblast. In 2009 she was awarded the Certificate of Honor of the RF Ministry of Science and Education.