

Tine Béneker

Utrecht University - Department of Human Geography & Spatial Planning

INSTITUTIONAL ROLES

Vice-dean Education of Faculty of Geosciences

MAIN RESEARCH INTERESTS

Geography Education, teacher education, futures education curriculum issues

ACADEMIC CAREER

Tine Beneker is professor of Geography & Education at the Faculty of Geosciences.

Her main research interest is in the field of Geography Education Research and the relationship between disciplinary knowledge and school subjects. She has published on the future and global dimension in geography education, young people's global awareness, representation issues and textbooks and (student) teacher education and professionalisation.

Tine is a member of the Steering Committee of the Commission on Geographical Education of the IGU. At Utrecht University, she is Vice Dean Education of the Faculty of Geosciences, member of the Board of Studies of the Graduate School of Teaching and part of the programme committee of Dynamics of Youth, one of the four research pillars of the university.